Distinguished with Distinctions is a book that reveals key secrets of distinction. Get to read live stories of people who were classified as failures and how they became distinguished in life. It also tells us about the mistakes made by those who allowed destructive inhibitors to take over their lives and how they were cut down in their prime on the express way to distinction. This book reminds everyone that distinction is never ending therefore we must strive to get more every passing day.

For the last two decades, child domestic work carried out in Nigeria as well as in other countries in Africa, Latin America and Asia, has been given increasing attention by international policy makers and scientists. Yet, the research mainly focuses on the living and working conditions of these children, which also forms part of this book. However, in addition, political and pedagogical measures of intervention employed on international, national and local levels on child domestic work are also at the centre of analysis. Against the background of post-colonial theory the author studies the effects of social modernisation in Nigeria as a rapidly growing national economy on child domestic work and historically retraces the origins of this form of child work back to indigenous modes of socialisation and social security within the (pre-colonial) Nigerian extended family network. The research is based on field work in Nigeria, including interviews and documentary analysis.

Failed system continues to cause setbacks and limitation in people's lives. Breaking the barriers between inequality and discrimination is not an easy struggle. Providing opportunities for the less privileged in society motivates the initiative for change. Our dreams give wings to positive imagination, inspired by the authors global knowledge. We must move ahead on a journey towards positive change. We will only succeed by resisting against the failed systems which keeps us from achieving our dreams. This book realistically goes deep into the secrets of breaching the gap, to adapt major change in failed systems that refused to add value to humanity. Meanwhile, challenging systems that provokes acute poverty in people's existence is like committing suicide. Therefore, resisting against any exploitative system, which suppresses change, would make you vulnerable to physical or emotional abuse.

Developing Science, Mathematics and ICT (SMICT) in Secondary Education is based on country studies from ten Sub-Saharan African countries: Botswana, Burkina Faso, Ghana, Namibia, Nigeria, Senegal, South Africa, Uganda, Tanzania and Zimbabwe, and a literature review. It reveals a number of huge challenges in SMICT education in sub-Saharan Africa: poorly-resourced schools; large classes; a curriculum hardly relevant to the daily lives of students; a lack of qualified teachers; and inadequate teacher education programs. Through examining country case studies, this paper discusses the lessons for improvement of SMICT in secondary education in Africa.
