You're not lost. You're not broken. You haven't missed your calling. You're just stuck And you're stuck for one simple reason: you're not fully self-aware. We're bombarded day-in and day-out by quotes, posts, and videos of people (seemingly) living extraordinary lives, leading us to believe that we're failing if we aren't shooting for the moon every minute of every day. But, if you haven't yet planted your feet on earth, how can you go after the moon? Through the approach Moore has implemented both in his life and in the lives of employees and peers, he has developed a thorough understanding of the power of self-awareness to help you: -Determine what you (actually) want -Discover who you (truly) are -Identify and remove what's (really) holding you back Those who embrace discovering who they really are create more purposeful, fulfilling, sustainable lives. They are the ones who both live and lead with intention. If you've been looking for a simpler way to identify and achieve your purpose, this book is for you.

Chriss also considers the development of municipal policing in the American West between 1850 and 1890, which helps to situate the current discussion of policing in the post 9/11 United States.
